Mohammad-Maher Nakshbandi was born in Syria. He received his B.S. in Computer Science from Lebanese International University in 2019 and his M.S. in Cybersecurity from Transylvania University of Brasov, Romania in 2023. He is currently pursuing a Ph.D. degree in Mechatronics and Robotics at the Faculty of Electrical Engineering and Computer Science, Transylvania University of Brasov. His current research interests include mechatronics systems, robotics, and SLAM systems. His work focuses on improving SLAM systems for real-life scenarios and autonomous navigation solutions.